Social Impact Investment & Sustainability Conference 2021

SIIS CONFERENCE 2021

With strong support of the United Nations system, we invited more than 30 outstanding leaders and effective practitioners in their respective fields of impact investing and sustainable development goals, including global political and international leaders, entrepreneurs, investors, scientists and professional researchers, to discuss "Strategic Thinking and Innovative Actions about Social Impact Investment in the Post-Pandemic Era".

The panelists also discussed the guiding principles of impact investing in the post-pandemic environment, innovative scientific investment to drive economic recovery, carbon neutrality and green finance, long-term strategic planning for enterprises to practice impact investing, value assessment system construction for impact investing, and share their successes and practical lessons.

We hope to bring together these sparks of innovative ideas to form a guiding principle and action strategy for investment in the post-pandemic situation, to strongly promote the achievement of sustainable development goals, and to put forward constructive suggestions, which will certainly be of great value to the leaders who are responsible for sustainable development and every global audience who care about the future of human sustainability. This will be of great benefit to the global audience of leaders with sustainable development responsibilities and everyone who cares about the future of human sustainable development.

SIIS CONFERENCE 2021

SIIS has been established as a landmark event for the impact investing community, with over 1.5 million globally views for the 2021 live online conference and over 70% of professional audiences from governments, international organizations, business and industry, especially listed companies.

The Social Impact Investment and Procurement Foundation, a specialized agency dedicated to supporting the United Nations, international organizations and public and private partners to achieve the global sustainable development goals and carbon neutrality targets, together with global partners such as STARTS Foundation, and with strong support from the United Nations system, invited nearly 50 leaders from political and international organizations, entrepreneurs, investors, scientists. The theme of the event was "Strategic thinking and innovative actions for impact investing in the post-epidemic era".
